

SENATOR REYNOLDS THINKS BRITAIN WILL BENEFIT BY TALKS

Democratic Senator of North Carolina, Says There Will Be
Understanding of Value

CONCESSIONS TO ITALY Mussolini, No Doubt, Will Get Docking Facilities At Djibouti

(The following article was written for I. N. S. by Senator Robert
R. Reynolds, Democrat, of North Carolina, a member of the Senate
Foreign Relations Committee.)

(Copyright, 1939)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—There was a time when John Bull said "boo" and the whole world shivered.

That time has long since passed,
because Hitler and Mussolini have brought the great John Bull to his knees, and the British empire is more impoverished today than ever before in history.

The Prime Minister of England is now engaged in conversation with Mussolini, and this meeting in Rome is much different than any that have ever been held by the Prime Minister with Italy, because the political atmosphere is this:

I think that as a result of the talk Mussolini will in all probability get concessions in French Somaliland, which will provide him with docking facilities at Djibouti, and certain concessions pertaining to the French-owned railroad which extends from Djibouti to Addis, the capital of Abyssinia, a distance of 498 miles.

In return for sympathy for Italy in his aspirations, Great Britain, I believe, will no doubt obtain an understanding of value to Great Britain.

What is the attitude of the American people toward this situation in Europe?

I maintain that we should look after our own knitting, attend to our business, and put our own house in order before we attend to criticize anyone else in the world.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

Sixty-five of the 108 members responded to roll call at the 11th annual meeting of the Alert Horse Company of Feasterville, held in the Trevose Community House at Trevose.
The meeting was in charge of the president, Will H. Yerkes, who has served in this capacity 20 years.

During the meeting five applications for membership were acted upon favorably. In the absence of the secretary, Wilbert Merrick, who was on the sick list, the proceedings of the meeting were recorded by one of the directors, Charles W. Gray.

Among the 113 members, including the five who were elected at the meeting, the two oldest and most regular attendants are Aaron Tomlinson, Langhorne, and Wilmer W. Cornell, Doylestown.

The company had no financial losses during the year, and only one of its members, Charles Danenhowe, Somerton, died.

Results of the election were as follows: President, Will H. Yerkes; vice-president, Guy R. Leedom; secretary, Wilbert Merrick; treasurer,
Samuel P. Knight; directors, William
G. Jackson, Lafayette C. Finney,
Charles W. Gray, Raymond C. Knight
and Aaron K. Dolton; auditors, Edwin E. Ridge, David Applegate and Clarence Boileau, and solicitor, Charles B.
Ermentrout.

After the business meeting the members adjourned to the banquet room, where a delicious turkey dinner was served by the ladies' auxiliary of Trevose, to whom the members gave much praise for the fine menu.

County government and the importance of balancing the budget were stressed at the meeting of the Sociopolitical Club of Doylestown held at the Doylestown Inn, with Bucks County Commissioner Joseph D. Baker,
of Holland, as the guest speaker.

Mrs. Ralph C. Farquhar, Jr., president of the club, presented a new member, Miss Virginia Taylor, editor of the Bucks County Times. The club
now has a total membership of 23 business and professional women of the community. Miss Taylor was appointed chairman of the publicity committee of the club at the suggestion of Mrs. Martha Wooley, of La-haska, who has served in that capacity
since the club was organized.

In her introduction of the guest speaker, Mrs. Wooley stressed the importance of women in business to take a definite interest in local government, study all candidates for office and to intelligently put to use the knowledge they gain along this line.

PRESBYTERY DISSOLVES WARMINSTER CHURCH

Dissolution Ordered by Vote
of 62 to 9 at Meeting
Held at Narberth

A 100-YEAR-OLD SPLIT

The Presbytery of Philadelphia
North by a vote of 62 to 9 has ordered the immediate dissolution of the Neshaminy-Warminster Presbyterian Church at Hartsville, founded in 1839
by the "Old School," and which was split from the Warwick Church.

Action was taken after an afternoon
of debate on Wednesday in Narberth Presbyterian Church, the climax of many court actions and years of efforts. The two churches had remained apart long after the breach between the two schools of thought had been healed in the remainder of the church.

The 100-year-old split in the historic Neshaminy-Warwick Presbyterian Church, "Cradle of Presbyterianism in America," caused by the "Old School"
and "New School" theological controversy, has been wiped out.

A restraining injunction against the dissolution of the "Old School" church is to be sought in the courts by the Rev. Benjamin F. Gemmill, former pastor of the Warminster Church.

The Old Neshaminy-Warwick Church,
only a short distance from the War-
minster Church, was founded in 1726
and had as its first minister the Rev.
William Tennent, founder of the Old Log College, above Harbor, out of which grew Princeton University and many other large universities and colleges. It remained in the hands of the "New School" at the time of the split.

The Rev. Nathaniel Irvin, another pastor of the church, founded with James Madison, afterwards President of the United States, the American Whig Society at Princeton University, which continues today in a Grecian
Temple on the college campus.

The "Old School" and "New School" controversy began in New England and was occasioned by a sermon preached by the Dr. Nathaniel W. Taylor, who belonged to a school of thought far removed from strict Calvinism and which was particularly severe on the doctrine of original sin.

When the controversy was at its height and the Old School was in power 100,000 Presbyterians of the New School were read out of the Church.
It was finally ended in 1870, except the visual evidence of the split churches at Hartsville. The Warminster Church, it is understood, has some endowments and the officers of the Presbytery have been ordered to seize all property.

In his talk, Commissioner Baker outlined the duties of the County Commissioners, but the highlight of his discourse was the statement that inferred that the Bucks County Commissioners were definitely in favor of zoning and planning for Bucks county.

The next meeting of the club will be held January 23 at the home of Mrs. Helen Fessenden, Buckingham Valley, with a well-known glass maker
as the guest speaker.

During December, Miss Maud L.
Wagner, Red Cross rural school nurse
for middle Bucks county, made 108 visits and covered 1106 miles.

The general program of nursing work was conducted the same as usual.

The nurse accompanied 10 children
to the eye clinic and five to the nose
and throat clinic at Abington Hospital.

The Misses Hewett and Conway,
State nurses, visited and interviewed
the nurse regarding the nursing work
in middle Bucks county.

The nurse and several members of the Red Cross nursing committee attended.

past year is the enlargement of the more than $125,000.

Home building which had virtually ceased here during the past five years came back in 1938 when five new dwellings were erected at an average cost of approximately $7000. The builders were Willard Stover, who erected a fine single stone dwelling on Arthur avenue, at Elm street;
Wilmer Detweiler, large single brick

Insurance

Washington, Jan. 11.

A considerable number of competent men are convinced that the best insurance against the outbreak of another general European war is to make it clear that this country will line up immediately with the peace-seeking nations and against the aggressors.

THE basis for this belief is that if it is known in advance that without delay the United States will fight, the certainty of ultimate defeat is sufficient to deter the most bellicose dictator from taking the final step. That knowledge, it is argued, might have prevented the war in 1914. A similar argument has been made in connection with the League of Nations—to wit, that

Newspapermen Convene In Harrisburg Tomorrow

(By International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Jan. 12.—Faced by economic problems quite different from those it met in its infancy 14 years ago, the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association, scheduled to hold its annual convention here January 13-14, was expected today to stress the importance of maintaining a strong association of publishers.

A. W. McDowell, president, declared that the PNPA today faced four distinct problems that were of minor importance when the association was organized.

Those problems:
1.—Expenditures for operation of newspaper plants. He indicated that newspapers are doing business, operating under rising costs, on greatly reduced revenue.

2.—Freedom of the press, which, he said, was scarcely mentioned 14 years ago. Today, McDowell said, constant attacks are being made upon the press from many quarters. In addition, he stated, newspapers today are more affected by legislation than in the early days of the association.

3.—Taxation. A major cost item today, McDowell declared, that 14 years ago was almost negligible as a factor in operating costs.

4.—Employer-employee relations.
These, he asserted, have undergone a decided change for the better. He said, however, that many issues still remain unsettled and urged both labor and capital to adjust themselves to present-day trends.

Highlighting the two-day convention will be addresses by Pennsylvania's Governor-elect Arthur H.
James and U. S. Rep. Martin Dies,
Texas, chairman of the committee
probing "un-Americanism."

Around us constantly occur feats of heroism and self-sacrifice, unsmiling because they are unsmiling. Deeds of courage, particularly moral courage, are so common as to cause no remark on their own account. Except in such vivid circumstances as the recent rescues of ships sinking in the North Atlantic, they escape the general eye; which is a pity in a time when the faith of men in civilization itself is assailed daily by some evidence of the new ascendancy in world leadership of qualities which man shares with the brute.

The rescue of a schooner's crew off Nova Scotia, and the saving of all hands from a sinking Norwegian tramp by a boat's crew of an American freighter, were too dramatic to escape the news. The latter story tells of kerosene distress signals and Morse messages sent by electric torch, of fuel oil pumped into the sea to tame the higher crests, of a request by the master of the rescue ship for volunteers and the willingness of every man aboard to make a journey fraught with the gravest peril, of the rescue itself, and an added touch—the skipper's daughter singing through the night to hearten a crew.

It is at such times that man is stripped to the essentials of his nature, to his own resources of spirit as well as body. These looked into the face of doom, undaunted, as men at sea have done since the Phoenicians first put an unbroken horizon between themselves and land and immediate safety. We thank them all for these points of light in the darker routine of the day's events, these evidences of the nobility which persist in the generality of people.

STUDY WAYS TO HELP

Richmond, Va., is one of the beautiful old cities of America, rich in associations with the history of the nation; it has dignity and modesty and rarely gets into the newspapers. But the other day Richmond received attention because it is host to the American Association for the Advancement of Science in its 103rd convention.

A dispatch from Richmond says this conference "has the most comprehensive symposium on mental health ever held, with the country's leading authorities in the field participating in an effort to map out a far-reaching frontal attack on one of the nation's most serious spiritual and economic problems."

The study of the cure, control and prevention of mental and nervous disorders is an important field for medicine and society in general. It is hoped that out of this convention and symposium may come what one of the officials has expressed as the intention, a formulation of principles which may serve as a practical guide to municipal and state governments in developing sound and more uniform measures and policies in the care and treatment of the unfortunate who are mentally ill.

"The next world war," says Gertrude Atherton, "will be between the sexes." Think of the poor devil confronted by both bombs and anti-aircrafting "I surrender, dear."

With the decision of the National Republican Club to close 50 bed rooms of its New York home, the reawakening of the elephant can be accepted as a fact.

Why pray for peace if half of the world's key rulers feel that peace would interfere with their racket?

The Great Game of Politics

The testimony of our Ambassador to Great Britain, Mr. Kennedy, and our Ambassador to France, Mr. Bullitt, given before the Congressional committee. There also was the reputation by Mr. Kennedy of his belief that war will come in the spring.

IN the light of all this, it seems impossible to doubt that what we are preparing for now is another European war in which again we will be on the side of England and France; that the cry for speed in arming is with the view of going in at once so that the conflict can be won without paying a ruinous price instead of waiting, as we did, for four years until it was almost lost. Everything points to this—the President's speech, the armament program, the attitude of the Ambassadors and the state of public opinion, which is today far more inflamed against Hitler than it was against the Kaiser in 1914—or even 1918.

IT cannot be said by the President or any Administration spokesmen that we are today, in effect, allies of England and France, preparing to make their cause our own upon the outbreak of hostilities. Public sentiment in America precludes any such openness. Public opinion compels us to assume the attitude that we are arming only to defend ourselves from attack and to prevent the intrusion of a foreign power into the Western Hemisphere. That is the official attitude. The overwhelming desire of the people for peace makes it essential.

BUT those who deal in realities know better. They know there is no danger of the United States being attacked and that the chances of anything save economic penetration of South America by dictator nations are almost as remote. Nevertheless, the fact that we are bound to become involved should the crash come is almost too clear to be disputed. And, in view of the darkness of the outlook, not to be prepared is to be criminally negligent. This Western Hemisphere stuff, to a large extent, is camouflage. If war comes we will be in it as we were before, without waiting for anything to happen on the Western Hemisphere.

FOR those who believe—and most informed people do—that we cannot keep out of the next war more than we could out of the last one, the course the President is urging seems the only intelligent one the country can take. It seems in the interests of peace rather than war. The evidence already available ought to be enough to convince any posted European ruler that, however unacknowledged, unofficial and nebulous, there is today a sentimental alliance between England, France and America which in the event of war, very quickly would become concrete, militant and open.

IN other words, it will be necessary to beat all three, which just can't be done. Once that conviction penetrates it would seem to insure peace. It certainly would insure it if reasonable men were at the helm. Perhaps the idea that the dictators are more or less mad dogs, impervious to logic and reasoning, is propaganda. There is a great deal of propaganda on both sides and it isn't easy to get at the truth. Perhaps Mr. Kennedy may be wrong again. In any event, while the expenditure of vast sums for armament is repugnant to a peace-loving nation already burdened with debt and taxes, if it tends to avert war it cannot be considered wasted any more than an insurance premium is wasted because you don't have a fire.

FARMER-HUNTER PROJECT TO BENEFIT BOTH GROUPS

Active Year Outlined By The Morrisville Fish and Game Association

BANQUET, FEBRUARY 13

MORRISVILLE, Jan. 12—With A. McClenaghan, president, in back of the plans, Morrisville Fish and Game Association will have an active year.

A project is being arranged under supervision of deputy game protector J. Stackhouse, to trap rabbits in the borough and release them in the outlying country where they should be of benefit to the hunters.

A farmer-hunter project is being planned which should be of great interest to both the farmer and the sportsman. The trap and rifle committees are running shoots every Sunday in the Post Road range where there is modern and well-equipped trap and rifle range.

A bound dog field trial is planned for January 21, and all interested are requested to register with Fred Wurle, either at the club house in the community house or at 129 East Franklin street.

The first annual banquet is to be held February 13. The association is co-operating with other associations in the releasing of game fish in nearby streams, and the game committee, in addition to the rabbit trapping planning to release plenty of game this year.

The junior club now has a membership of 50 boys and has built six game refuges around Morrisville for the feeding of game and all wild life during the winter months, and the committee, under the leadership of John Lumsden, has planned an active program for the boys to follow in 1939.

Explanation was necessary. The audience had gone away satisfied. It had had a look behind the scenes, it had done its job for the sponsor by following Mr. Wilson's lead and everybody, presumably, was satisfied.

The studio audience, in a sense, is the opera claque of long ago. At one time, no opera debut was launched without the presence of a number of leather-lunged hired hands in the audience to shout "Bravo" and to slap their hands together in vigorous commercial approval.

Audiences do not have to be packed to enthuse for a radio show. They are there on the cuff, they feel a certain sense of obligation to the headliner and to his show. They rise to the occasion.

There were times at the Benny show when we laughed uproariously—times when if we were sitting beside the radio at home we might have grinned or perhaps chuckled a little bit. All of us who were there, like Jack Benny and his show. We weren't going to let him down with a mere grin or an under-the-breath chuckle which the microphones placed in the audience couldn't pick up.

The warm-up period also is important to the radio show and also is denied the stage show. Perhaps if Eddie Dowling and members of his cast could have lounged around the stage for fifteen minutes before curtain time, passing small talk with the audience a better bond of understanding might have been set up between cast and audience.

That fifteen-minute warm-up gives Benny a chance to look over his audience, to try them out. Probably he could tell before the show went on the air what to expect from his studio audience just by the way they responded to his preliminary horseplay—his arguments with Phil Harris who was rehearsing the orchestra, his violin act with the band, his conversation and asides to the front rows.

Some stage folk are said to be afraid of the microphone. They shouldn't be if they work with a studio audience and have a warm-up period. The show practically is in the bag before it starts.

Recreation's New Co-ordinating Agency

(Prepared for The Courier by F. A. Pitkin, Executive Director, Pennsylvania State Planning Board)

At least fifteen Federal and State agencies, as well as a number of civic groups and organizations, are devoting a large portion of their programs to the recreational development of Pennsylvania. While many of these confine their activities to some special field of development, others, such as the National Park Service, the State Department of Forests and Waters and the State Planning Board, are concerned with any and all developments in the State.

For some time it has been felt that the recreational needs of the people could best be served if a central co-ordinating agency made up of representatives of every group interested in recreation in Pennsylvania were to be formed. The function of this agency would be to correlate all recreational programs and combine them into a State "master program," thus providing a means of avoiding duplication of work.

Further stimulus was given the idea at a conference on leisure time issues held at Bucknell University last summer. At this conference, attended by a large group of state educators, it developed that many present have never been informed of many of the facilities now available for use and guidance in recreational activities.

It was also clear that a great deal of confusion existed as to the function of various land areas, such as the State and National forests and the Federal Recreational Demonstration Areas, in the broad scheme of recreation activities. There seemed also a lack of general information as to the County Library Service for rural areas and as to the possible use of school facilities for adult and non-school recreation.

From such circumstances was the State Recreational Council born only last month as an agency with a two-fold purpose; to correlate all recreational programs into a master program and to assure publicity on all recreational development. At the Council's organization meeting in the offices of the State Planning Board, representatives of fifteen Federal and State agencies and civic groups adopted the following four-point program:

(a) The drafting of a complete list of all agencies concerned with recreational development in Pennsylvania with a description of their functions and a listing of their services or facilities.

(b) Co-operation to unify publicity in regard to indoor and outdoor recreation, adult education and rural library service.

(c) The exchange of inter-agency information as to available aids in carrying out the various programs.

(d) Co-operation in the effort for the extension of areas and facilities needed for recreation, for the fuller use of facilities now available, and for state and local planning directed toward solving the problems arising from the increase of leisure time.

SCORES PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

DALLAS, Tex. — (INS) — Amid all the clamor for municipal power plants comes the opposing statement of Joseph F. Leopold, Dallas supervisor of public utilities.

"Public ownership of utilities has been successful in some small towns where the management has been extraordinary but it could not succeed here," Leopold told the local Manufacturers and Wholesale Association. "I want none of it. I want no more scramble for jobs and money than there already is in any government."

tended the nurses' meeting. Miss Grosoup was the speaker.

The nurse and Miss Ross attended the Welfare Council meeting regarding Christmas baskets for the needy families. Thirteen families received Christmas baskets. Eight baskets were furnished by the Eastern Star and five by the Willing Workers' Sunday School class of the Presbyterian Church. Eighteen families, including 82 children, received toys. The nurse had a real Santa Claus to present the Christmas baskets and toys and much appreciation was expressed by the families for them. One family said they would have had only potatoes for their Christmas dinner if it had not been for the kindness of others through the Red Cross.

ADVERTISING

--a service to YOU

Advertising renders an important service by bringing to you the show windows and price tags of the nation. In the Columns of this newspaper all through the year, you can discover and consider the things you want to buy. Thus you need not search through a hundred shops or pay more than you should.

The rule of advertising is simple. The more people know about the merit of a product, the more people buy it. The greater the volume of sales, the less it costs to manufacture. Savings in producing mean either lower prices to the consumer or an even greater value the next time you buy. This saves you money.

So advertising is more than a means for selling goods—it's a service to you!

ON THE SCREENS

BRISTOL

Reckless youth and careless parents! Delinquent guardians of a new generation!

One of the most daring, straight-from-the-heart stories of modern times and people, bringing to you two lovable, romantic young stars in Doris Weston and Maurice Murphy, who scored so notably in recent screen successes, "Submarine D-1" and "Tovarich," respectively, who will be seen here today in the Progressive picture, "Delinquent Parents," an absorbing drama of modern youth that is proving a sensation wherever it is being shown.

The story of "Delinquent Parents" carries with it a powerful message on the moral tone of the present-day social system, dealing with the experience of modern children, whose parents are delinquent in bringing them up.

These youngsters set out to solve their problems all by themselves when parental love and understanding is denied them, and in doing so they defy social conventions and the law.

Don't miss seeing this startling drama of youth up in arms. "Delinquent Parents" is a picture you will long remember!

With Wayne Morris and Priscilla Lane as its stars, "Brother Rat," which is proclaimed as the best comedy ever made, opens at the Grand Theatre today. This is the Warner Bros. picturization of the famed stage comedy that took Broadway by storm and ran for two years there with three road-show companies touring the country.

It's a play about college life, yes—but it isn't that sort of college play where the lads and the co-eds team up and break into choruses and dances every so often, generally without any excuse whatever. As a matter of fact, "Brother Rat" is laid in and about the Virginia Military Institute, which is by no means co-educational, and the photoplay has nary a song nor a tap-step in it.

It deals with the difficulties into which one of the cadets gets himself by entering upon a secret marriage, a business distinctly against all rules and regulations. Not only that, but he faces parenthood—and instant dismissal from V. M. I. if the authorities get wise to him.

SIMPLE DISHES ARE IDEAL FOR SUPPER ON SUNDAY EVENINGS

By Miss Edna Stephany

(Home Economics Representative)

Sunday night suppers can be gala occasions without being too elaborate.

Instead of using the left-overs from dinner, try simple dishes which may be quickly prepared. Neither children nor grown-ups need more than a simple meal after a hearty and usually late Sunday dinner.

If there are older children in the home, let them be responsible for preparing and serving the supper. Perhaps they would enjoy planning each Sunday night supper and give the mother extra time for rest and leisure.

Many appetizing suppers may be built on toast. Set the toaster on the table and let each person make his own toast. Serve jam, marmalade, preserves, creamed eggs or fish, or stewed fruit with it.

Toasted sandwiches are almost sure to please everyone. They may be made using cheese, garnished with crisp bacon and sliced pickles, or a filling of sardines garnished with sliced tomatoes with grated cheese on top.

If lettuce and salad dressing are available, an excellent salad may be made of almost anything you have on hand—cooked and raw vegetables, cooked meat, or fruit.

For dessert, fresh, dried or canned fruit may be served plain or between layers of simple cake or shortcake. An upside down cake may be made the day before. Serve it plain or with whipped cream. Or you can make a fruit gelatin on Saturday and have it ready in the ice box for Sunday night. This is one meal when milk or cocoa makes an ideal beverage.

Instead of setting the table, why not serve the food picnic or cafeteria style? This will give a new and different touch to the meal.

Try these informal Sunday evening suppers and see how much enjoyment members of the family get from having a part in carrying out this type of meal.

SEES FEWER "DOLL HOUSES"

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(INS)—The current popular design of small dwellings is a product of "hodge-podge" architecture of which home owners will soon grow weary, declares Robert Dennis Murray, a Los Angeles architect and a recognized authority on home design. He believes that home owners will soon demand fewer "doll houses" with Queen Anne fronts and Mary Ann rears in the current surge of building enthusiasm.

TO DECIDE WINNERS OF 1ST HALF OF RACE TONIGHT

The first half championship of the Bristol Basketball League will be decided on the Italian Mutual Aid floor tonight as the Hibernians meet the St. Ann's A. A. quintet in the final tie-off game. St. Ann's eliminated Go-dwill last Monday night.

In playing the Hibernians, the "Saints" will be striving for their seventh consecutive victory. They haven't been beaten since "Herb" Lawrence joined the club. The Hibernians led the first half during the early part of the season but ran into two straight losses which set them back into the tie-off.

It is most likely that Manager Gene Dugan, Hibernians, will use the same quintet that kept him in the race during the first half. He has Joe Gallagher and Joe Roe as forwards; Joe Snyder, center, and the guards, Nick Hatfield and Edmund Dugan.

Manager Pete Borne is sticking to the same five that has enabled the Purple and Gold to win their six straight games. At forwards he has Ray Dorsey and Harry Berry; center, Herb Lawrence, and the guards, Johnny Slavin and Pete DeLuca.

In the preliminary game, the Grundy's five will clash with the Goodwill Hose Company five. The teams drew out of a hat at a meeting last night and Falls Alumni was drawn to play the fire-fighters but at the last minute, Manager Mike DeRisi, Falls Alumni, changed his plan and gave his game to the Grundy team.

It was also announced that night that the Falls-St. Ann's game scheduled for that night will be played on Monday, January 23.

Opening tap-off tonight takes place at eight o'clock. The largest crowd of the season is expected and the fans are requested to get there early if they wish a seat.

STEINKE DOWNS DAVIS AT ARENA

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 12—Hans Steinke, the German Oak, pulled and tugged at Karl Davis for 37 minutes in the feature wrestling match at the Arena last night and finally pinned the Southerner when it appeared that one or the other would soon surrender from utter fatigue.

The bout, typical of the 30-minute draw the wrestlers staged last week, was slow at times, but this was simply because the pair was wrestling instead of engaging in rowdy antics. Seldom in the local ring have the cash customers been treated to a match its equal. In fact, the fans went home convinced that they had seen a real wrestling match for a change.

Steinke, who makes up in wrestling technique what he lacks in color, was extended by the towering Davis before bringing his famed "boomerang" into play to take the match. Davis, no soft touch as far as the catch as catch can game is concerned, was near exhaustion as Steinke pressed his shoulders to the mat.

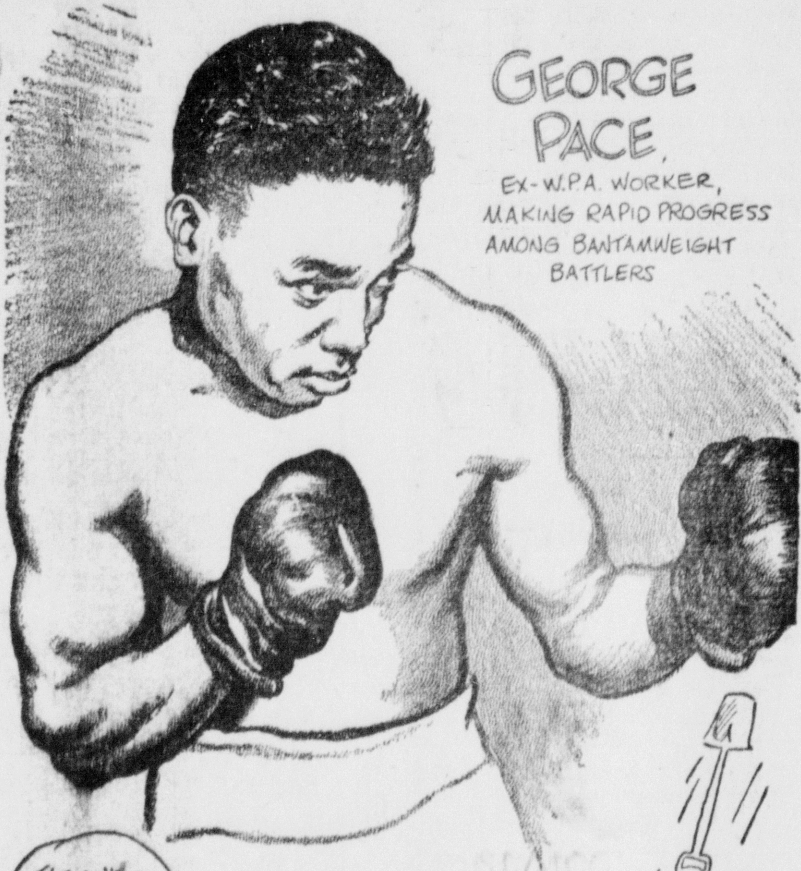

Vic Christy, popular California grappler, returned to the local ring after an absence of several years to win the semi-windup from Sammy Cohen, Bronx roughneck, in 11.45. Cohen aroused the fans and tortured Christy with a taped hand for the best part of the match, but the Vic caught Sammy with a forearm blow on a break to win the match.

Bibber McCoy won the third match when he pinned Sammy Menacher in 19 minutes. Pat Corrigan took the second match from John Gudiski after 13 minutes. Frank Brown took the opener from Ali Ghandi after 18 minutes.

Big Gain in New Buildings at Perkasio avenue; Edgar Crouthamel, single dwelling on Main street, near Walnut; and J. Zirlyn, brick dwelling on Fifth street at Spruce.

The largest private building project is the large three-story building on Seventh street at Race, erected by the E. F. Stover estate for their flour and feed business. The property, formerly owned and operated by a hay-balling concern, was purchased by the Stover estate several years ago. The property has a switch, which the borough shares with the owners, and ample parking space on private property for the large business.

The old frame hay-house was razed and on a concrete foundation was constructed a building of frame under asbestos sheathing. The new building will be completed in early spring.

In addition to the new building there were many permits issued for enlargements of residents and business places as well as for a number of garages. One of the major expansions was the annex to the Reichley and Rosenberger Shoe store on Arch street, which was completed at a cost of nearly $5000. The improvement virtually doubled the floor space in their store room and provides attractive display windows.

The Dr. Walter Hendricks dwelling and offices too were extensively enlarged and improved and a garage was erected on the rear of the lot.
